TOWN OFFICIAL PAPER.

VOLUME III. BERKELEY, CAL., SATURDAY APRIL 11, 1896. NUMBER 139

SOUTH BERKELEY

A Picturesque Portion of the Town

BEING RAPIDLY BUILT WITH FINE RESIDENCES.

What the South Berkeley Improvement Club Has Done For This Section.

South Berkeley.

This portion of the town of Berkeley is situated at the south-east end, its imaginary line being along Dwight way on the north, and extending to the town line on the south, from Shattuck avenue and Adeline street on the west to the hills on the east. For some years it was sparsely settled, but during the past eight or ten years there has been built a good number of residences, some quite expensive. It has a school house suitable for its present wants, an engine house, with a good company always on hand when the alarm of fire is made; a good hall for public purposes, and all the stores necessary to supply the wants of any thriving village. Ashby avenue has been sewered, graded and macadamized; Shattuck avenue is now being improved in the same way. A club was formed there some years ago, which has been a very important aid in having that portion of the town improved as much if not more than any other section. Electric lights have been placed on the streets; it has a post office of its own, and in fact is a town by itself. Good sidewalks have been laid on many of the streets. New buildings are constantly being erected for residences. The land slopes from east to west, and this gives all of the property a great advantage in the way of having an obstructed view of the Golden Gate and San Francisco.

College way is destined to be one of the principal streets running from north to south as it connects with New Broadway leading to Oakland. If the latter street was in good traveling condition this long avenue would be the main one connecting Berkeley with Oakland at this end of the town.

Recently some capitalists have purchased a large piece of property extending from College way, on the east two blocks toward the west. The length on College way is over twelve hundred feet making practically four full sized blocks. Work is now being done in the way of sewering, grading and macadamizing all the streets surrounding this purchase. It will be laid off into house lots, in size fifty feet front by one hundred and fifty feet in depth. It is quite likely that shade trees will be planted making, when completed and ready for the market one of the choicest places in Berkeley for the erection of residences. There will be about fifty lots embraced within the improved limits. As said before the land falls from east to west sufficiently to give a fine drainage and allow the houses to look over one another.

On the northeast corner of the primary limits of South Berkeley is situated the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum, which is backed by the hills on the East. Its elevation gives it the natural overlook of a large amount of land and water, affording a panoramic view that is not often surpassed. Out through the Golden Gate can be seen the vast amount of shipping which passes to and from all parts of the world. San Francisco is in the distant background, very distinctly seen in the daytime, particularly after a north wind has cleared the atmosphere. At night the electric and gas lights make the great city appear like a scene in a fairy spectacle.

The soil here, like elsewhere in the town, is deep and of a very rich nature. Vegetation of all kinds is spontaneous. With the slightest cultivation everything grows in a very prolific manner, as the pretty gardens now under cultivation will attest. A good sized creek winds its way from the hills to the sea, and water is easily obtained for irrigation and drinking purposes, although for the latter use water companies furnish a portion of the supply.

Taken separately from the other portions of Berkeley it has everything requisite to make one of those pretty little towns for which the suburbs of Boston is so celebrated.

At the present time the land is held at comparatively low prices, in fact the time will never come again when one can make a purchase for so little money as at present. The time is not far distant when people from the larger cities on the bay will be looking for places in North, East and South Berkeley, where homes can be erected that will combine all of the luxuries that can be found in the suburbs of any large city in America, and at the same time be near enough to the metropolis to enjoy all the excitement, pleasure and business appertaining thereto.

An electric railroad already passes through the town and additions will be built to it as fast as public convenience may demand them. The local steam cars stop at the main or Ashby avenue.

For bicyclers who are now getting to be very numerous, Berkeley will have no superior in the future with level macadamized streets, the pleasure of riding over them will surely attract riders from elsewhere as well as afford our own people one of the most pleasant outdoor exercises now known.

The Board of Education will meet this afternoon and evening to canvass the votes cast at the bond election on Saturday last, and to transact such other business as may come before it. There may be some discussion as to how the present lack of room in the public school may be overcome, but it is not probable that any action will be taken just at present. It is hoped, however, that some way may be found that will enable the Board to build new school buildings sufficient to supply the present pressing demands.

A fire at Piedmont early yesterday morning destroyed the residence of Dr. A. P. Merriman. The building and its contents was a complete loss, and the occupants were fortunate in escaping alive. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Calhoun, who was aroused from her sleep by the smell of smoke pervading the atmosphere.

BASKET BALL GIRLS

Come Out in Debt in Their Recent Spirited Game.

Basket Ball Finances.

A definite report of the receipts of the basket ball game has not yet been made, but it is generally understood that the team will be in debt. The heaviest expense was $55, for the blue bloomers and white sweaters, which comprised the uniforms. This is a great disappointment to the co-eds, as they expected to swell the fund raised to send the Berkeley athletes East.

Tennis Men Yield.

Captain Merwin has come off with flying colors in his tracas with the members of the tennis club, who objected to his removing their courts and compelling the track captain to respect them. Now, however, they have decided to allow the track men full sway on the cinder inclosure and have moved over to Strawberry canyon.

The University Cotillion.

The University cotillion was given in Harmon gymnasium last evening under the patronage of Mrs. Martin Kellogg, Mrs. Ben Morgan, Mrs. John R. Glascock and Mrs. W. R. McNutt. Several round dances were danced before the German was announced. Those who led were Clinton R. Morse and Miss Marie Messer, Alf Williams and Miss Flora Dean, Howard P. Veeder and Miss Mamie Stubbs. The fraternities threw open their houses and many San Francisco guests remained at the clubs over night.

Plans for a New Church.

Rev. George A. Swan, pastor of St. Mark's Episcopal church, has suggested a novel plan for securing a new church building which will not necessitate the raising of all the building fund at once. His idea is to build a large temporary structure and from time to time to add the permanent parts of the new church. Mr. Swan thinks that the first thing made to last in the temporary structure should be the chancel.

Mr. George Schmidt, real estate agent and notary public, and Mr. H. W. Taylor, the lumber merchant, are having some new offices fitted up a few doors north of those they now occupy. When completed these gentlemen will have as fine a place to do business in as there is in the whole town.

ARE CROWDING UP

Teachers That Had But a Few Votes

ARE NOW SLOWLY BUT SURELY CLIMBING.

Professor Waterman and Miss Squires Both are Gaining Very Rapidly.

Coming Up.

The young contest for the teachers is forging ahead very rapidly. There was a little lull in the voting last week, but the end of the week is showing up well. Candidates that have not had many votes, heretofore, are coming rapidly to the front, and it may be yet that some of those who looked as though there was no chance to win may be the ones who will be victorious in the end.

Professor Waterman and Miss Squires are rapidly pushing toward the top of the list, and their friends will not let them lag from this time on.

Since the prizes have been placed on exhibition the energy of the boys and girls has been redoubled, and the number of subscribers that are coming in is very gratifying to the publishers of the GAZETTE.

Several of the boys and girls are holding back their votes in order to surprise some of the teachers, so look out for startling increases in the votes at most any time.

Kiting.

Some little while ago the weather bureau people in San Francisco lost a number of experimental kites. Today there is floating in the air about Berkeley some aerial vehicles which have a very similar appearance to those reported lost. They may not be the same, however. The new kites soar aloft without the use of a bob.

On Monday night the Populist campaign club was formally organized and elected the following officers: President, Adam Throscher; vice-president, Dan McLaughlin; treasurer, William Farwell; secretary, John Donahue; assistant secretary, Fred Rawson. The club has a standing offer of five dollars for an essay by any member of the University or High schools of Berkeley discussing the application of the initiative and referendum to American politics.

Yesterday afternoon a young woman who stated her name was Mary Brown jumped off the ferry boat Bay City, on its 1:45 trip to San Francisco. A boat was quickly lowered, and the girl was rescued. She said she was sick and did not want to live any longer.

Streets of New York.

Michael Strogoff will only be produced tonight and tomorrow night at the Oakland Theatre, as on Monday night that thrilling, sensational melo-drama entitled, "The Streets of New York" will be put on the stage. The following is the plot of the play:

Captain Fairweather, an old retired sea captain, having accumulated a snug fortune, placed a large sum of money in the hands of one Gideon Bloodgood, a banker on the verge of ruin. This transaction saved the banker from threatening insolvency which at the time of the deposit was unknown.

A few hours later while at lunch he learned of the banker's downfall, and returns to withdraw his deposit, and his anxiety brings on apoplexy, which results in death. His chief clerk, a noble scamp, steals his receipt from his dying hand, and the body of the sea captain is thrown out into the street.

An elapse of twenty years finds Gideon Bloodgood regained to a high degree of affluence, saved by the timely deposit of Fairweather, the latter's family being reduced by the occurence penniless. Badger, the clerk, returns from a trip to California, and compels Bloodgood to come to his terms.

Mark Livingston, son of an old Knickerbocker family falls in love with Lucy Fairweather. Alida Bloodgood, the spoiled daughter of the banker, desires to marry Livingston and gain an entrance into New York's "400." Bloodgood tricks Badger and turns him over to the police. Livingston refuses to marry, a period of time elapses etc. The Fairweathers are subjected to starvation. Bloodgood, to obtain the receipt that Badger stole from the the dying man twenty years previous, sets fire to the house in which Badger, his old clerk lives. Badger manages to save the receipt with the aid of the exempt firemen of the volunteer force. Bloodgood is foiled, Alida looses Mark Livingston, Badger comes to the rescue. The Fairweathers regain possession of their own, and a silver lining tinges the clouds that hover over the Streets of New York.

WELL TO THE FRONT.

County Assessor Dalton Is Getting Along Nicely.

Ahead With His Work.

County Assessor H. P. Dalton has his assessment for 1896 well in hand. Mr. Dalton had a hard time with his figures last year, but this year he began the moment the first Monday in March came around. He put his field deputies out the moment that noon of that day arrived, and as a result of this early start this work is very well advanced. There are sixteen men at work in the office copying the final rolls, and where last year at this time not a volume of the final rolls had been completed, this year over 2000 pages of this work has been done. This advanced state of the work will enable Mr. Dalton to make a careful and personal revision of the work of his deputies and prevent the possibility of errors that might occur through haste.

Base Ball.

The game played this morning between the Berkeley High School and the Oakland High School resulted in favor of the latter with a record of 15 to 9.

The game between the Stanford and Reliance clubs commenced this afternoon at 2 o'clock and was not finished at the hour of going to press.

A Silurian Minority Wins.

At a meeting of the Board of Education held this afternoon at the Town Hall, for the purpose of canvassing the votes of the late bond election, it was found that there were 637 votes in favor of the proposition, and 422 against it. It will be seen in this case that the silurian minority defeats the wishes of a majority of the citizens of Berkeley, who it will be seen by the result are in favor of having school houses built to educate their children in.

THE FABIOLA FETE.

Great Preparations Being Made for It.

THE GRAND BICYCLE TOURNAMENT AND

The Most Wonderful Floral Parade Ever Seen In Any City In the State.

Arranging the Park.

The work of the Fabiola Floral Fete Committees is narrowing down to the details of final preparations. Next week attention will be directed to getting the Trotting Park into proper order.

Thomas H. Williams of San Francisco met the committee last night. The preparation of the grounds was discussed. Mr. Williams gave assurance of his willingness to do everything in his power to make the fete a success. He will meet the committee Sunday afternoon at the park to decide upon the work to be done.

A twenty-foot area will be separated from the remainder of the track by ten-foot poles, and the strip will be rolled and hardened into perfect condition for the bicycle events.

In the infield a large area will be leveled for the polo games. Some work has to be done on the grand stand in the way of building approaches, and a number of new seats will be placed in front of the stand. With the seating capacity thus gained, it is expected to accommodate 8,000 spectators.

Mr. Williams offered many valuable suggestions in regard to the programme and the crowd. He also agreed to donate the services of his experienced men, and to provide ticket boxes and cash registers.

A special effort will now be made to have interior towns represented in the parade. Two committees, consisting of Messrs. Fitzgerald and Trowbridge and Davis and Remillard, will make a tour of the out-lying districts and personally solicit attendance. Trophies, to be decided upon at the next meeting, will be offered for the best out-of-town floats.

Messrs. James P. Taylor, W. V. Witcher and A. S. McDonald, as a committee, are making the rounds in behalf of a store-closing movement, and the Merchants' Exchange has already resolved that its members close their places of business from 10 to 6 o'clock on fete day.

R. M. Welch of the L. A. W. has officially confirmed the report that the National Cyclers' circuit will open here. The order in which the various events will occur is practically agreed upon as follows: From 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., U. C. events and polo game; 1 to 3:30 p. m., floral parade and awarding of prizes; 3:30, beginning of bicycle contests; then, in case the Burlingame Club so decides, steeplechase races.

Chief Engineer Mathews of North Berkeley, who was on the ill-fated steamer Rio de Janiero, which recently put into Honolulu in distress returned home yesterday. He says "there is no doubt but that if the vessel had kept on the coal would have given out. The officials at Honolulu seemed to think that the vessel ran into the port for the purpose of turning the specie over to the royalists."

The people of Berkeley and surrounding country now have an opportunity to sell their eggs, butter, poultry, game or anything in that line at the very highest prices. Call upon A. Cassagnes, 1607 Fifth street, corner of Holyoke street, West Berkeley, who will buy whatever you have, either in large or small quantities. 48 tf

Don't Want Them.

According to the Vallejo News there is a class of business men in San Francisco who visit Vallejo for the purpose of selling goods to merchants, and at the same time not overlooking sales to private individuals, who are worse than vampires. After they have taken all the orders that they can get, says the News, they go to the Georgia street dock and take their lunch which they have brought from San Francisco and eat it. They suck the life blood from the town, but do not leave one dollar in the town, not even the price of a glass of beer. That kind of cattle are no good to any town.

There will be preaching at the West Berkeley Methodist Church tomorrow morning by the pastor. In the evening the services will be conducted by students from East Berkeley.

Miss Bertha Lord Will Resign.

Miss Bertha Lord, assistant to Postmaster McCarthy, having served the Berkeley public faithfully and very satisfactorily for the past four years will resign the position about the first of May. HE WAS FOOLED.

An Oakland Attorney Sent to Berkeley on a Fool's Errand.

An Urgent Call.

Several of the legal friends of W. H. Goldson Jr., the young attorney, got together the other evening and decided to have a little fun at his expense. An urgent message was sent to the attorney to come out to Berkeley to defend a friend who had got mixed up with the law. Mr. Goldson quickly seized his overcoat and hastened to take the next car for the University town. About four hours later, after having scouted the place in vain for his friend, he returned to his office and was met by Attorneys Ned Ayer, F. B. Josephs and J. E. McElroy, who were very anxious to know of his success with his Berkeley ease. Attorney Goldson admitted that the laugh was on him but took it all good naturedly. He says he intends to bring a suit for $299 against his friends for work and labor performed in trying to locate his client.—Oakland Enquirer.

There will be a regular meeting of the Crescent Athletic Club on Monday evening next. It will be the second quarterly meeting when the Directors will make their report.

COL. COCKERILL DEAD.

Consul-General Williams All right.

DENIAL OF VERY SENSATIONAL RUM.

Maceo Still Fighting—Bimetallists Now Hope England Will Lead on to Their Victory.

Sudden Death.

Cairo, April 11.—Colonel John A. Cockerill was stricken with apoplexy at 7:30 o'clock last evening in the barber shop of Shepard's Hotel. He was unconscious from the beginning of the attack, and died at 10:06 o'clock. Colonel Cockerill was out driving yesterday afternoon, apparently in perfect health. At 7 o'clock he went to the barber shop, and while there was seized with an apoplectic attack.

Not Dead.

Washington, April 11.—A dispatch under today's date was received at the State Department from United States Consul Williams at Havana, thus effectually disposing of a published rumor that he had been assassinated.

Reports of a battle, in which 500 of Maceo's men fell, are similarly dismissed.

Havana, April 11.—The insurgents have burned the machinery and houses on the Central plantations of Diana and Barbon, near Moralito, the approximate loss being $1,200,000. The insurgents also burned 90,000 tons of cane on the plantation of Santa Gertrudes, belonging to Antonio Gonzales Mendoza.

Bimetallists Hope.

London, April 11.—The Bimettalic League issued a manifesto urging bimetallists, in view of the recent discussion in the House of Commons, to redouble their efforts to educate the country.

The manifesto concludes: "Great Britain having now approved the principle of international bimetallism as necessary to the prosperity of her commerce, the time cannot be distant when she will recognize that her only true position is in the van of the movement.

Confesses.

Philadelphia, Apr. 11.—The North American today prints the confession of H. H. Holmes, the murderer. Holmes confesses his guilt and explains his criminal tendencies as being born in him and irresistible. He says he killed twenty-seven people.

Swimming Contest.

Athens, April 11.—On the swimming contests of the Olympic games today the 100 meter race was easily won by Hajos of Buda-Pesth. He defeated over twenty competitors.

Forest Fires.

Raleigh, N. C., April 11.—A forest fire in Cumberland county destroyed 10,000 acres of the finest pine timber in that section with a loss of over $100,000.

One house, many barns, miles of fencing and many cattle were burned. Rain checked the fire just in time to save the town of Fayetville.

Chas. Hadlen leaves tomorrow morning for Calaveras county, in which he has extensive mining interests. We hope he will bring some of the precious metal with him when he returns, as it is very scarce along the rialto.

A School of Languages.

Has been opened in room 72 Blake building, Oakland, by Miss Madeline Jirkowsky. Instruction given in Spanish, French, Italian, German and English. We always said that Berkeley could beat the world upon any proposition, and our words are being constantly verified almost every day. Mrs. Davis of West Berkeley has a piece of ground which she planted sometime ago in potatoes, which came up, sprouted, bloomed and ripened about three weeks ago. It is doubtful whether any other section has or can produce fine, large, new potatoes as early in the season as those grown by Mrs. Davis. We might add furthermore that the potatoes were all dug and that another crop is now growing in the same ground.

The funeral services of Mrs. John Sequeria, whose death was announced in yesterday's GAZETTE, will take place tomorrow (Sunday) at 2 o'clock p. m., at the North Berkeley Congregational Church, Rev. BOARD OF TRADE.

If Berkeley were to have a Board of Trade composed of citizens from every section of Berkeley, all sectional feeling would soon vanish, and every man, woman and child would labor for the upbuilding of the whole of Berkeley. The members from each section of the town could ascertain what is needed in their particular section and communicate their wishes to the Board of Trade as a whole and then all would labor for the accomplishment of that result, and it would be achieved.

In other words if the people of West Berkeley wanted a wharf, the representatives of the Board of Trade from that section of town would make their wants known and the Board would then get right down to work and see that the wharf was obtained. If East Berkeley wanted a High School the same modus operandi would be gone through with and the High School would be assured. If Lorin desired a public park it would obtain it, and the same way with any section of the town that desired any particular thing.

Under an active Board of Trade whose aim it would be to build up and improve the town, harmony would prevail and everything desired could be accomplished.

In other towns where one section of the town has been pulling against the other, the organization of a Central Board of Trade, has caused all ill feeling to vanish, and the people to unite and settle right down to the improving of the town in every section, and we believe that such a course would be of the greatest advantage to Berkeley.

There are improvement clubs in Lorin, South Berkeley, North Berkeley and West Berkeley. Let these clubs agitate this matter and arrange for the formation of a Board of Trade for Berkeley, and it will soon be seen that harmony will prevail, and that Berkeley will take such a stride forward that everybody will be surprised.

Berkeley is one of the most beautifully located cities in the world, for schools, homes and all manufacturing purposes, and it only needs a little energy on the part of its people to make it a great city.

The good things of this world do not come to those who sit idly by and wait for them, but they do come to the people who are wide awake, active and hustling, who watch every opportunity, and never allow one that is beneficial to pass by.

ARE THEY LEGAL?

Every now and then the question arises as to the legality of the courts in Berkeley, some attorneys saying that the courts of Berkeley are legal courts of justice and other attorneys claiming that they are not.

There should be no doubt in the matter of the Berkeley courts. If they are illegal the public should know of it, and if they are proper courts the matter should be known at once.

It was thought that the case of the People vs. Stricker, which was appealed to the Superior Court would decide this matter, but as a matter of fact the decision as handed down by Judge Frick decided nothing. He did not touch on the legality of the court, nor in fact of the ordinance, he simply remanded the case back for a new trial without any reference whatever to the ordinance.

The Berkeley correspondents of the San Francisco papers whenever they have occasion to refer to the ordinance declare that it was knocked out by Judge Frick, as being unconstitutional and many of our citizens think that such is the case.

There was nothing in Judge Frick's decision that would justify this belief, and that would indicate that the ordinance or any part of it had been knocked out.

The action of Attorney Chapman yesterday in getting up and leaving Justice James Court and taking his client with him was contempt, and the Justice should issue a bench warrant for him as well as for Mr. Fonzo.

The Berkeley Justice Courts are legal until such time as the higher courts decide that they are not, consequently Mr. Chapman, as well as anybody else is bound to respect their authority.

If Mr. Chapman was arrested and sentenced to about thirty days in the County Jail, the question as to the legality of the courts would be speedily ascertained.

The assertion that the court is an illegal one does not settle the question as to the guilt or innocence of the clients of Mr. Chapman, for it is a very easy matter to rearrest them and take them before a court that is legal, and all that is obtained is a little delay. If a man is innocent he cannot expect to prove it by delay, and if he is guilty it is far better that he learn his fate as soon as possible. It is to be hoped that the question of the legality of Berkeley's justices' courts will be speedily settled, for the town cannot afford to have justice made a farce of any longer. The town has numerous ordinances which must be enforced and they cannot be if this question as to the legality of our courts is not settled at once.

A rumor has reached Washington that the United States Consul General at Havana has been murdered, and that his body was dragged through the streets by the infuriated Spaniards. The rumor has not been confirmed, however, and it is hoped that it is not true, for if it should prove to be true it means that the United States will be compelled to send its army and navy to Spain, and teach them a lesson. If any misfortune has overtaken our Consul at Havana, the blame will have to be shouldered upon President Cleveland, who has shown a very vacillating course in this Cuban affair. On two or three occasions the Spaniards have threatened the life of the Consul, yet no steps have ever been taken by this country to resent it. Congress has passed resolutions in favor of recognizing the independence of Cuba, but President Cleveland has held the matter back. Spain thinks that the United States is afraid of her, and it is justified in thinking so by the action of our President. If the Consul-General has been injured, however, Spain will find out that the United States is a dangerous enemy to fool with.

The Redlands Citrograph, published by that veteran editor, Scipio Craig, has entered upon its eighteenth volume. It needs no eulogy as it is the best weekly paper published west of the Rocky Mountains. Scipio is in the city quite often and the newspaper artists who hang around the corridors of the different hotels like to take snap shots at him and then put them in the papers. None of them can or ever will do him justice, however, until his sunkissed locks and lake colored whiskers can be printed in natural colors.

A SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY.

Is Now Offered to Those Who Have Money to Invest in a Legitimate Enterprise.

The Alameda and Santa Barbara Development Co. which was incorporated for the purpose of developing oil wells at Summerland, have now decided to offer 1000 shares of their capital stock at $1 50 per share, the par value of which is $3 00. The Company have now 4 oil wells producing 50 barrels per day, besides a water well which will save an outlay of $35 per month besides having an abundance of water to sell to others, it being the only water well in the country.

No effort has been made heretofore to dispose of stock, but on account of the increasing demand for oil and the recent advance in price they are anxious to put down at least 10 more wells as soon as possible and more money is needed for that purpose. There whole output is sold faster than can be delivered besides offers have been made for all they can produce at the wells.

When their property is fully developed, they expect to produce 400 barrels per day, as they have sufficient territory for 40 wells.

There being an underground flow to the ocean, the supply is inexhaustible.

Summerland is situated six miles south of Santa Barbara, on the Ventura branch railroad, and on the completion of the gap from Ellwood north will be on the main line to Los Angeles.

The company owning property on both sides of the railroad extending to the ocean gives them splendid facilities for shipping by rail or water, as a wharf is about to be built, there being a natural harbor opposite their property.

They are fully equipped with steam power, pumping plant, and other machinery necessary for the work, and also tank room for 700 barrels.

They are not wanting money to prospect at other people's expense, but to develop that which is an absolute certainty, and can be vouched for by the most reliable authority.

The Company is composed of well known business men of Berkeley.

WHITE MAGIC.

Again I the world I close my heart,
Shielded in pride and fain in fear
Lest I love and lost. "Depart!
Nor enter here."

A gypsy which has glided in,
Sits it is her seat beside my fire.
Her eyes, so innocent of sin,
Mine of desire.

Sh, lo is gay with an unknown spell;
She folds me in her heart's embrace.
If this be love, I cannot tell.
I watch her face.

Her somber eyes are happier
Than any joy that e'er had voice.
Since I am happiness to her,
I, too, rejoice.

And I have closed the door again.
Against the world I close my heart.
I hold her with my spell, in vain
Would she depart.

I hold her with a surer spell,
Beyond her magic and above.
If hers be love, I cannot tell,
But mine is love.

—Arthur Symons.

FIDDLING JIMMY.

He was long, lank and lean, light haired, with pale blue eyes, the product of the Missouri bottoms, where things sprout up with such amazing quickness and then mature with so much deliberation.

When he dropped from a train at Dodge City he had an old fashioned carpetsack in one hand and under his other arm was a fiddle in a faded brown bag. He looked about him somewhat in wonderment at the river and the rolling, treeless country merging into the sky far away to the south and then again at the long, crowded street on the other side. He looked but for a moment, however, and then proceeded straight to the office of the Southwestern Stage company. His inquiry there was short and to the point.

"Have ye got any job a feller kin do?"

This was years ago; when Dodge was the end of the overland cattle drive and fully entitled to its reputation of a wild and wooly town. To the south for a few miles was a sprinkle of settlers and beyond that all was lonesome and inhospitable.

The Southwestern company always had vacancies. Along the many routes were certain relay stations, some of which were sure to be in need of keepers. There was one line in particular, running down to Tascosa, on the South Canadian, in Texas, a stretch of 250 miles, and just a little over half way was a station, No. 13, where a man was needed at once. The pay was $40 a month. The duties were simply to watch half a dozen mules and have a team ready for the weekly buckboard that performed all the transportation, the freight being usually two of Uncle Sam's mail sacks. The company supplied a gun and ammunition, flour, coffee, salt and groceries. Truly it seemed a bonanza to any knight of the violin.

There was no haggling over terms, and Jim Casonberry, fiddle and carpetbag were duly dispatched the very next morning to the field of his new labors. And Jim was duly dubbed Fiddling Jimmy by clerk, driver and all who came in contact with him.

Jimmy had been duly informed that he would find things "sorter" lonesome out at No. 13, but had responded that he didn't "keer a durn" for being by himself. The fiddle was plenty of company so his grub came regular.

Now, there were certain things about No. 13 that had been discreetly overlooked in the telling. It was 35 miles from the stations on either side and consisted of a square hole dug at the top of a steep bank overlooking a waterhole in one of those plains creeks where such holes occur at long intervals, the remainder being simply a grass grown depression. The hole was roofed with cottonwood poles, upon which dirt had been thrown—a dugout pure and simple. There were a rude fireplace and a hole for a chimney. This was Jimmy's residence. There was a stockade up on the flat for the mules, and with this you have the station complete.

No man who knew the country could be induced to take No. 13 for love or money, so the company had to depend upon the ignorant and the transient. The country was full of rustlers and cow thieves. Occasional gangs of Indians from the nation used to slip along there, bent on any deviltry that came handy. When No. 13 was occupied, it was a shining mark for such gentry. The last occupant had been found, not a fortnight before, lying out on the flat with a bullet in the back of his head. The man before him had had a 30 mile ride for life and a month in bed from a leg broken by a winchester bullet. On each occasion No. 13 had been gutted and the mules run off.

But in blissful ignorance Jimmy took possession of his new home. The buckboard rattled away, the driver looking back, sympathetic but noncommittal.

For some weeks all was quiet and peaceful. It was the pleasant season of the early autumn. Jimmy put a line in the water hole and had fish whenever he wanted. Twice he shot antelope coming down to drink and reveled in fresh meat. He shot everything of any size that had wings and feathers, and being unversed as to what was good or bad to eat, ate and fasted all. Some he ate, some he threw away. The hides and beards came in with prompt regularity, dumping on a sack of flour or meal, and the report came weekly to headquarters that the "feller with the fiddle out on Lost creek hadn't been pestered yet."

The "feller" put in his days watching his stock, fishing, hunting, cooking and eating, and when the chill of the evening came after supper he would throw a little wood on his fire, draw up a soapbox seat and play on the fiddle until he was sleepy enough to roll up in his blankets on the clay floor and sleep the sleep of the man perfect in health and conscience.

But one evening when the shadows had fallen on all the valleys and the upland, when there was but a lighter shade over the west to show where the sun had bidden its daily farewell, there came slinking up Lost creek Crawling Wolf and seven of his dirty, ill smelling brethren, foul birds of the night, ready for anything, from petty larceny up to murder, provided the situation allowed crime without danger to the criminal.

They had a herd of stolen ponies corralled some miles below and were coming up to see what No. 13 might afford in the way of diversion. In single file they flitted along noiselessly as shadows, now and then stopping, heads up, to listen, as is the wont of beasts of prey. Suddenly Wolf stopped shorter and more suddenly than usual, giving vent to a startled grunt. All stopped, rigid as statues, to listen. A faint wind rustled for a moment, died down, and then from afar came an unwonted sound in the wilderness. It was the sound of Jimmy's fiddle.

Cautiously the Indians crept closer and closer, stopping now and then to listen, until they reached the foot of the bank at the water hole. Just above them shone the light from the dugout entrance. The noise of the tortured music was loud and clear, and at times Jimmy's voice was uplifted in old hymns, and camp meeting songs reminiscent of other days back in Missouri. Quiet, but swift as crawling snakes, the intruders swept up the incline of the clay bank. A moment later they swarmed in on the musician. Jimmy was sitting at the side of his fireplace, and his winchester was near the door. Thus he was cut off from his only weapon.

When those Indians came in, filling up the little dugout, I doubt if in all the world there was a more surprised and frightened being than the keeper of No. 13. The music stopped. The hand that wielded the bow dropped as if paralyzed. Jimmy stared at the apparitions, while old Wolf smiled hypocritically and grunted "How!" Somewhat reassured by this apparent sociability, Jimmy managed to gasp out, "Howdy do?"

The sons of the desert deliberately sat down on the bare floor, and old Wolf once more grunted out:

"Play fiddle more. We like."

Jimmy played something at once, and of course after awhile wound up with a flourish, as all performers do, and stopped.

The somber audience gave no sign of approval or dislike. They sat perfectly still, except that their little eyes glittered and shone in the firelight like diamonds. But when Jimmy stopped Wolf grunted again:

"More."

Jimmy played more and kept on in response to the request after each cessation. Finally he lowered the bow and protested:

"I'd like to be obliging, but I'm getting too tired."

Wolf simply loosened a winchester from the folds of a dirty blanket, cocked it and presented it at the protestor's body, grunting again:

"Play more. Much heap. Damn quick."

There was an immediate revival of musical activity.

And so they kept the frightened fiddler to his work. He played his whole repertory over and over again, the audience never caring for the repetition. The night wore on. Far over the flats came the answering howls of the melancholy coyotes, quavering and dying away in a long drawn note of utter lonesomeness, but the sound of the fiddle never ceased. A late moon rose and slowly climbed toward the zenith. The big dipper in the northern sky dropped down and around the polar star as though time were not the essence of the performance. Still the sound of the constant fiddle vibrated in the chill air. At last over in the east came a faint streak of light, and then all creation grew dim and gray. And with the first light Crawling Wolf stood up and shook himself. His brethren did likewise. They took Jimmy's rifle and everything portable on the premises, never allowing him to cease for a moment, then quietly filed out and disappeared in the morning mists.

About 10 o'clock next morning the keeper of station No. 12, over on the Beaver, happening to look up, saw something coming very rapidly over the hills from the southwest. The something soon resolved itself into a man on the back of some creature. As it came closer it was apparent that the creature was a mule running for dear life, while the man was using both hands and feet with great energy. The mule stopped, all blown and wet, in front of the station, and the man fell off in a dead faint. He had a broken fiddle bow in one hand and in the other a ruined fiddle, the body part beaten to a frazzle and the strings flying all about in a perfect maze of tangles.

And the very next driver to arrive at Dodge City announced to the powers at the stage office:

"Fiddlin Jimmy's done quit."—Philadelphia Times.

Mr. Switterda's School.

Early in the eighteenth century a Mr. Switterda announces that ladies and gentlemen who desire in a very short time to speak Latin, French or High Dutch fluently, and can spare but two hours a week, will be faithfully taught by him according to a very easy and delightful method; full, plain, most expeditious and effectual. "Every one," he continues, "is to pay according to his quality from 1 to 4 guineas a month, but he (Mr. Switterda) will readier agree by the great." A good contrast to the above is the plain and homely description of "a school about 40 miles from London. The master has had much success with boys, as there are almost 40 ushers and masters that were his scholars. His wife also teaches girls lacemaking, plain work, raising paste, sauces and cooking to a degree of exactness. His price is £10 or £11 the year, with a pair of sheets and one spoon, to be returned if desired."—Cornhill Magazine.

A College Student as Blacksmith.

At Cornell all the mechanical engineering students have to learn seven trades. One of these trades, that of blacksmith, is very distasteful to some of the students, but it has to be learned all the same. One young fellow, who was unusually averse to soiling his hands, begged hard to be exempted from wearing the leather apron, but the professor took special care that there was nothing lacking in thoroughness of his training at the forge.

Last fall the student went to the professor and thanked him for being compelled to learn blacksmithing. "You see," he said, "I am now superintendent of a mine away back in Colorado. Last summer our main shaft broke and there was no one in the mine but myself who could weld it. I didn't like the job, but took off my coat and welded that shaft. It wasn't a pretty job, but she's running now."

"If I couldn't have done it, I'd have had to pack that shaft on mule back and send it 800 miles over the mountains to be fixed, and the mine would have had to shut down till it got back. My ability to mend that shaft raised me in the eyes of every man in the mine, and the boss raised my salary."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Now is the time for ladies to get the latest styles of millinery, and there is no better place to find everything in fashion than at the Bee Hive on University avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets. The lady proprietors spare no pains to please their patrons. They make fashionable dressmaking a specialty. Patronize a home institution, where you can as well be suited as either in Oakland or San Francisco, and just as cheap for the same kind of goods. apr 7-1m
